Our gardens are in bloom every day of the year, the result of collaboration with talented South African landscape artist and horticulturalist, Keith Kirsten.

Over 350 indigenous plants and trees are nestled alongside carefully sourced exotic plant species curated to encourage bio-diversity on a spectacular level.

A holistic ethos helps us give back to the earth, thanks in part to our wormery, which generates rich, organic fertiliser used by our horticultural team to nourish the Estate's grounds.

THE ART

A personal collection

Each piece of art that adorns the walls and gardens throughout Delaire Graff Estate has been personally handpicked by Laurence Graff from a much-treasured personal portfolio.

A prominent collector of South African art, the Estate features works by artists such as Anton and Lionel Smit, Deborah Bell, Dylan Lewis, Cecil Skotnes, Kendell Geers, Ndikhumbule Ngqinambi and William Kentridge.

Frequently named as one of the world's top art collectors, Laurence Graff began his impressive collection by acquiring classic Impressionist paintings; one of the first works purchased was a small Renoir in the late 1970s, which he kept in a safe among his diamonds.
