Driving from Khwai Tented Camp to Linyanti Bush Camp

From the DO NOT ENTER rope barrier, you find a small (30x30m) square fenced off area after 50m on the right and a dirt track turning off to the right – take this track

After 900m you arrive at the main gravel road – turn right

After being on the main gravel road for 750m, there is another dirt track to the right – turn right (you cannot continue on the main road as there is a permanent water obstruction up ahead)

Follow the short winding track, you may come across a water crossing (depending on time of year). Only cross if other vehicle tracks are visible and engage in 4x4. Continue on the track until you get back to the main gravel road – this has been a short detour

After 1.5km of being back on the main gravel road, you will cross over a permanent concrete bridge

Continue on the main gravel road for 29km when you will find a sign post to the left indicating SAVUTI/LINYANTI – turn left. If you arrive in Mababe you have missed the turn off by 3km

You are now leaving the main gravel road and back onto single dirt tracks for the rest of your journey. You will need to engage in 4x4 for many sections of these sandy tracks

After 7.5km you arrive at the Mababe Gate and are entering the Chobe National Park (you need to register and pay park entry fees here)

500m after the gate, the road splits, take the right fork as this is a better & more scenic road although both roads lead to Savuti. From Mababe Gate to where the 2 roads join up again is 34km

From where the roads join up again to Savuti 30km

Shortly before Savuti, you will start finding concrete sign posts – keep following the signs for DWNP OFFICE

There are 2 turn offs to the right, both sign posted to the SAVUTI MARSH, but continue on straight

You will pass a prominent rock outcrop/small hill on the left hand side – you cannot miss this as it is the only outcrop in the area

The Savuti bridge is another 5km up ahead

Cross over the permanent steel structure bridge

FROM HERE THERE ARE 2 ROUTE OPTIONS

VIA SKL CAMP

This route is shorter (44km) but a very sandy route, with the first 6km being extremely thick sand

Turn left immediately after the bridge – it is signposted LINYANTI

During the first 10km you will find double tracks, but keep to the left as the large trucks use the tracks on the right

Keep following this single track for 40km until you reach a T junction

Turn sharp right (you will find SKL Tented Camp on your left) and continue for 4km until you arrive at the Linyanti Gate, where you need to register again

Continue straight for a further 4km and you will find a signpost to the left for LINYANTI BUSH CAMP – turn left and the camp is 100m further on.

VIA GHOHA GATE

This route is longer (67km) but far less sandy and faster

Continue straight on the road after the bridge for 28.5km until you reach Ghoha Gate (the road splits halfway and both roads join up again but the road on the right is shorter)

Immediately after passing through the gate, take the first turn to your left and continue for 35km. There are occasional sandy patches on this road

After 35km you will find a T junction, with the Linyanti gate immediately to your left but you must turn right here
