CRATER-RIM WALK

LODGE TO RIM WALKING SAFARI

Gibb's Farm's CRATER RIM WALK takes you off the beaten path for a wonderful wilderness experience.

The walking safari is between 5-7 hours depending on your fitness and your expectations are bound to be exceeded. If you have a spirit for adventure and a love of wildlife and untamed wilderness, this experience is for you!

A naturalist will accompany you from Gibb's Farm with binoculars and a keen sense of knowledge to share. A ranger will join you from Ngorongoro Conservation area and carry a rifle as a precautionary measure for your safety whilst on safari. Most walkers will encounter elephant, cape buffalo, bush pig and a number of other animals along the way as well as an abundant forest of plant and tree life. With over 200 species on the Gibb's Farm bird list, you are bound to see a wide variety of east-african birds.

The walking safari starts at Gibb's Farm, which lies at 1,700 metres (5,500 feet) above sea level. We hike up to the rim of the Ngorongoro Crater, which lies at 2,300 metres (7,500 feet) where our vehicle will meet you with a well-earned, delicious picnic lunch and refreshments before returning you to Gibb's Farm. The altitude and duration of the trek requires you to be in good physical condition.

We recommend the following gear for your walking safari: good footwear, long pants, a long sleeve shirt, a light fleece pullover and/or windbreaker, small daypack for your 2 litres of water, a good sun hat, sunscreen and insect repellent.

Other things you may want to bring include a camera, binoculars and sunglasses.

Walking sticks will be provided by your guide.
