The hidden locations of many of these magical spaces require 'insider knowledge' and they are not easily accessible to first time solo adventurers. The view from the top of the mountain is an absolute highlight, with uninterrupted 360 degree views of Wolgan Valley and beyond.

This is a challenging 'off track' experience that requires a high degree of physical fitness and prior experience in 'off track' bushwalking. This hike is not suitable for children under the age of 10 years unless they have significant 'off track' hiking experience. For guest safety, we do not recommend this hike be undertaken without a Field Guide. This exhilarating hike will include energy snacks and a light picnic lunch, enjoyed from the scenic vantage point of one of Donkey Mountain's incredible pagoda formations.

Long pants and sturdy footwear suitable for hiking over rough terrain (i.e. hiking boots or sturdy enclosed footwear) are recommended.

The refinery was one of the largest shale oil production schemes in Australia and comprised of mining, processing, distillation and associated manufacturing industries such as coking coal, bricks, and paraffin wax. During the period of peak production it is estimated up to 2,000 people resided in the remote mining village of Newnes.
